Campolindo's Meghan Ringer, a 6-1 senior forward, capped a successful high school basketball career by making a verbal commitment to Southern Utah University in Cedar City, Utah.

Ringer averaged 10.9 points and 6.9 rebounds per game last season for the 22-6 Cougars, and shot 45 percent from the field.

Ringer credits Campo coaches Clay Kallam and Mike Miller, and summer club coaches Pico Wilburn (Bay Area Lady Warriors), Kelly Sopak (Cal Stars/Miramonte High School) and Mark Anger (EBX) for helping her develop her game. Ringer finally settled on Southern Utah, which is now coached by former St. Mary's College player and coach J.R. Payne. Ringer will sign her National Letter of Intent, which confirms her scholarship, in early November.
