Orinda Farmers' Market Opened last Saturday

Another magnificent day under sunny skies provided the perfect start for the 2013 Orinda Farmers' Market May 4. Orinda residents mingled and chatted with other fans of fascinating flowers, fresh produce, meat, and other tasty delights. The Farmers' Market will be open 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Saturday through early November on Orinda Way.

The Road to Public Service

"I decided to do something where my work actually makes a difference to people," says Gilmore.

She landed a management analyst job in engineering with the city of Benicia's public works division, where personnel manage a wide range of programs and services on behalf of the community's 28,000 residents - including that city's own wastewater treatment plant. "Most people don't think about the part of local government that helps them the most," says Gilmore of public infrastructure. There is tremendous satisfaction for public employees who make water treatment plants safer, or secure grants which fund road improvements and build new bike paths.

Gilmore stayed in Benicia for 11 years, spending the final four of her tenure supporting the city manager. And then the Orinda job announcement caught her attention.

She's looking forward to using the diverse skills she's developed over the years to help residents find answers to their questions and interact effectively with City Hall. Ultimately, she hopes to become a "go-to girl" who can be depended upon to get the job done. "If you'd like more information or need help navigating the website," says Gilmore, "I'm ready to help."
