

Fireworks Could Fizzle Lacking Funds

Just as it takes a village to raise a child, it takes a community – plus $24,000 – to stage a fireworks show. And if three very local “villages” don’t step up with financial donations for Moraga’s Fourth of July display, then the future of those shows is quite literally up in the air.

“People don’t understand the town [of Moraga] doesn’t pay for [the fireworks],” said Moraga Chamber of Commerce representative Kathe Nelson.

Nelson spent a recent afternoon placing half gallon Ball jars atop Moraga business counters, where she hopes they will attract customers’ attention as well as their spare change. A total of 48 jars will be distributed throughout Lamorinda, including Orinda and Lafayette.

The collection jar kickoff began at June meetings of Kiwanis of Moraga Valley and Lamorinda Sunrise Rotary, and so far netted the cause more than $175, bringing the current total to over $1,600. Moraga Parks and Recreation Director Jay Ingram said the fireworks shows started in 1991, and up until last year the cost has been covered by donations. Some 6,000 people enjoy the nighttime event which is launched near Moraga Country Club grounds and viewed from Moraga Commons and surrounding hills.

Former Moraga mayor Karen Mendoca climbed the Commons hills seeking donations; current mayor Dave Trotter passed the hat among fellow golfers at Moraga Country Club. Last year, however, Ingram said Moraga fell $1,200 short of expenses. “That scares me a little for this year,” he said. The town’s general fund picked up the slack then, but a fireworks display isn’t budgeted for, he added.

“Everybody should have fireworks for the Fourth of July,” said 5A Rent-a-Space co-manager Gloria Noggle. Taking the Lamorinda population of over 58,000 into account, the cost would be only “50 cents a head,” added Noggle’s husband and co-manager Brad.

So, who’s had a spark of inspiration for the cause so far? Orinda Association pledged to donate half their Fourth of July pancake breakfast proceeds to the fireworks fund. Pennini’s owner Patrick Vahey will match any donations that come through his Moraga restaurant. And Moraga Hardware and Across the Way owner Bill Snider said, only half-jokingly, “I’m not even giving people change.”

Jar labels include a QR code, taking smart phone users directly to the Town of Moraga website where contributions can be made online. Checks can also be mailed to: Town of Moraga, Attn: Buy-A-Rocket, 2100 Donald Drive, Moraga CA, 94556.

Adonal Foyle is Coming to the Lafayette Library

Former basketball player and author Adonal Foyle is coming to the Lafayette Library to the first-ever authors and athletes special event from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Friday, June 21. Locals may know him as a Warrior, but he is so much more – poet, philanthropist and motivational speaker. He’ll be discussing his amazing journey as an NBA player, his life experiences and insight, as well as his new children’s book, “Too Tall Foyle Finds His Game.”

Foyle was selected as the eighth pick in the 1997 NBA draft by the Golden State Warriors and ultimately stayed with the team for 10 years.

With the Warriors, he made a name for himself as a fan favorite. Following his decade on the “W’s” he played briefly for the Orlando Magic and then the Memphis Grizzlies until he was sidelined by a knee injury and retired.

Born in St. Vincent and the Grenadines in the Caribbean, Foyle was adopted at age 15 by Joan and Jay Mandle, professors at Colgate University, and graduated from Colgate magna cum laude with a history degree.

In 2009 Foyle was inducted into the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame due to his founding of the Kerosene Lamp Foundation that serves children, and Democracy Matters – a non-partisan student organization created to counteract political apathy on college campuses and examine campaign finance reform. He recently attended a Moraga Country Club fundraising golf event for his foundation, which supports a variety of activities using basketball as a catalyst to encourage education and health awareness among impoverished youth.

Kids are encouraged to attend the June 21 event. Admission is free for kids; $5 for adults. For more information, visit www.lafayetelib.org.
