Inspiration Photos

Photographer Erik Nelder

This photo was taken in Israel while filming design inspiration videos. We reasoned that if marble could handle 4,000-plus years outside and retain beauty, it would probably be OK in a vacation project off continent.

Will you be staying in the home for generations or is it short-term? Design to facilitate that.

Instead of creating space that is static or holds you back, examine goals, hopes and dreams first. Create designed space that moves you forward in real and practical ways.

It's like sailing. You get to the destination faster and with more style points if you know the currents under your surface and prevailing winds. Get the unseen issues tackled and the rest is – as they say – smooth sailing.

Do you have a young family with children in preschool and want to make sure art and music are still passions when they are teenagers? Design space to create energy and anticipation for practice. Don't place the piano or art studio in a dingy corner of the garage or the basement family room. Integrate those into core living spaces.

There is science behind design, and we love the beauty part, but in order for it to thrive for you in your own home these things need to be addressed.

Next we look at your "Space Envelope." The space envelope refers to a proverbial cube-like border around the spaces and places we will be designing. It's a non-negotiable "design fence" within which we make decisions and bring completion – all consistent with your "Life Envelope."

Why? Just like other areas of life, focus, follow through and completion are the game changers for excellence. Ask yourself what spaces need to be designed together to be consistent. Why is this space a priority? What are the potential pitfalls of this space and how can you avoid them? And do you have a reasonable budget? The "Space Envelope" keeps us from getting carried away.

By putting a decision cube around a space, even if it's a 24,000-square-foot combination of five buildings on a 400-acre mini-ranch, we prevent distraction. It's equally important on a 600-square-foot kitchen remodel, maybe more so, as lives are curated in those 600 square feet.

For today, take stock of these tips for your own spaces. I created this process when my interns and new grads who had amazing technical skills, struggled to complete projects of excellence. It has been so well received, design professionals from across the country use this training for themselves, not just for their employees. We are in process of creating a complete homeowner accessible version as well this fall.

As stylish suburbanites, you are therapists, counselors and lifestyle consultants. My goal is to equip you to thrive and reach your individual and family goals seven years out – through design.
