As it turns out, the very wet winter was a boon to Moraga's remaining pear trees and the bumper crop it produced.

This year's pear harvest, held Aug. 3-4, was jointly sponsored by the Moraga Park Foundation and Kiwanis Club of Moraga Valley. According to Kiwanian coordinator Karen Reed, "We had a record harvest this year of 14,731 pounds of Bartlett pears from the 100-year-old orchards in Moraga Valley. The 180 volunteer harvesters included members of the National Charity League, Boys Team Charity, Kiwanis Club and local residents. Pears were harvested from orchards owned by the Moraga School District, St. Monica's Church and the Bruzzone family."

Food Bank of Contra Costa and Solano Executive Director Larry Sly was the guest speaker at the Aug. 15 Kiwanis Club meeting. He spoke about the facility that he helped form in the mid-1970s. "When we first started, we found out that there were food resources going to waste. There are so many ways that food is being wasted in our society. Things like day-old bread or fruit with slight imperfections are often discarded yet perfectly edible."

Sly stated that the Food Bank gave away more than 13 million pounds of food last year, adding, "Our warehouse is full of food to provide for people in need. We work with over 180 nonprofits and our trucks deliver to 70 sites in Solano and Contra Costa Counties."

More than 50% of the food they give away is fresh produce. Being located in an agriculturally rich area, the Food Bank is able to distribute a wide variety of fresh fruit and vegetables.

Operating on an annual budget of $12 million to provide food for the needy, the Food Bank depends on government grants, as well as corporate and private donations. As such, Moraga Valley Kiwanis donated funds for the Food Bank to purchase a much needed commercial refrigerator/freezer.

"It's heartwarming to see the relationship that you (the Kiwanis) have with the Food Bank," a grateful Sly said.

Children's Health Guild hosted its annual spring fundraiser, "A Night at The Beverly Hills Hotel" at Roundhill Country Club in Alamo on May 11. Attendees gathered for a festive evening including gourmet fare, exciting live and silent auction packages, inspirational speakers and dancing in support of beneficiary organizations, UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital Oakland and George Mark Children's House. Thanks to generous sponsors and donors, the event raised over $440,000. Proceeds will support CHG's beneficiaries in continuing to provide the full spectrum of medical care for children and their families, including emergency and ongoing treatment as well as transitional, respite and palliative care.

The incredibly successful fundraising event was chaired by a stand-up group of Lamorinda women, including Orinda residents Tania Celante and Audrey Mao Michaels, alongside Hannah Kim and president of CHG, Dariana Ross of Lafayette.
