New public scanners have been added to the Orinda Library. Library Manager Michael Beller says that the large flatbed scanner is suitable for scanning books and in addition there is a very fast feeder scanner. The scanners are located right by the reference desk, so staff will be able to answer any questions. The machines can scan directly to a USB device, email, online folders and more. In addition, Beller says that there is immediate AI translations to over 100 languages, including two forms of Klingon: not yap wa' Hol. (Klingon for "One language is never enough.")
